AMUSEMENTS TO NIGHT.

WASHINGTON THEATER-Opera -The patrons of the Washington Theater are to have a taste of Italian opera to-night. M'lle Angiolina Cordier, who has in New York created an immense sensation in the opera of " Dinorah," and M'lle Moreusi and Signors Maccaferri, Amodie and Susini being the troupe who appear under the management of Mr. Grau. The programme will consist of gems from "Dinorah" and the most pleasing selections from other operas. GROVER'S THEATER. - Yankee Robinson closes his engagement to-night and takes a benefit. His stay here has been all too short, and all who desired it have not had an opportunity of witnessing his amusing performances; for Manager Grover has been compelled to turn away many nightly who could neither secure stats or standing room. His closing perform. ance will consist of "Days of '76" and a new play entitled the "Battle of Antietam," both of which are exceedingly entertaining, especially the e parts personated by Robinson himself. Of course it will be necessary to go early to secare a seat.

FORD'S THEATER .- The grand operatic spectacle of the "Enchantress" will be performed this evening, and for the last time. It will be produced in the most superb manner imaginable on this closing night. This is also the last opportunity of hearing the Richings in English opera, as on Monday night they will appear in the comedy of "Fashion." Den't fail to see the . Enchantress.

Opp Fellows' Hall .- Canterbury company will give their last performance at Odd Fellowe' Hall this evening, and their closing performance will be equal to any that have preceded it. The fact should be noted that ladies a. well as gentlemen can witness the Canter. bury company performances while they are at Old Fellows' Hall. Julia Mortimer, Kate Penpoyer, and the Court of Beauty appear to night. VARIETIES.—The week at the Varieties closes with an excellent bill. With such a manager as Hernandez it is not surprising that the performances here give such general satisfaction. Ada Tesman, the charming vocalist appears again this evening; also, the Budworth Brothers, Moreste Brothers, Miss Whelpley, Julia Lehman, and the entire company.

CHRISTMAS AT THE HOSPITALS .- We continne to-day our reports of proceedings at the different hospitals on Christmas day.

MOUNT PLEASANT HOSPITAL. This extensive hospital (situated near Columbian College) was on Christmas the scene of one of the most enjoyable entertainments of the day. The rooms were beautifully decorated with evergreens and other tasteful ornaments, and the following scriptural inscription, appropriate to the day, bore a conspicuous place: "And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." The dinner was served to the invalid soldiers at 1 p. m., in bounteeus profusion, indeed. In addition to the plentiful supplies furnished by Mrs. Secretary Smith, and which included fine oysters and the most delicious grapes, there were generous donations by Mrs. Bates and others, which swelled the supply in such sort that enough good things remained over untasted to supply a similar feast to the gallant invalids on Funday. Among these donations were 1,700 oranges, 50 gallons of ice cream, 1 barrels of ale, jellies in infinite profusion, &c., &c. The committee of ladies in charge-consisting of Mrs. Germond Crandell, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Katie Bates and Miss Virginia Smith-were assiduous in the discharge of their duties through the entire day, and made it a point to ascertain, by personal inquiry, that not a man of the fifteen or sixteen hundred to be supplied had been neglected. They were ably seconded in their arduous work by Mrs. G. W. White, Mrs. Dr. Page and other ladies; and the exceltent surgeon (Dr. McCali) and his assistants gave their hearty co-operation. The soldiers testified their estimation of the services of their fair benefactors by giving three-times-three cheers "for the ladies,' in a style that almost threatened to unroof the building. 'Cheers were also given for Gen. Burnside, for the army of the Potomac, and for Surgeon McCall. The festival at Mount Pleasant Hospital will long live in the memory of those present.

ASCENSION CHURCH HOSPITAL. At Ascension Hospital proper, (Ascension Church, H street,) an excellent dinner was provided, the bill of fare embracing all the substantials and delicacies that the market afforded. The dining hall was elegantly trimmed with evergreens, interspersed with boquets of fragrant flowers. The table was literally loaded with the good things of life, and at two o'clock the convalescent soldiers sat down to dine. After dinner, Mr. Chas. J. Rasch, the gentlemanly steward of the hospital, made some very happy and well-timed remarks, after which he proposed three cheers for Surgeon J. C. Dorr. Remarks were also made by Dr. Charles J. Tail and others, after which cheers were proposed and given with a will to those who had so generously contributed to make this to the patients, what it really was, a "Merry Christmas," and among those who were particularized, were Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Caleb Smith, Mrs. Klemm, Miss Harris, the directress of the hospital, and others. All the participants expressed themselves well pleased with the dinner, and with the efforts made to make them for a time at least, forget their ills and sorrows.

ECKINGTON HOSPITAL. Among the fetes offered to sick and wounded soldiers that at Eckington Hospital was amidst the foremost. The generosity of Mrs. Caleb Smith, with some few private donations, made a tempting bill of fare. Turkies, chickens, cranberries, potatoes, apples, oranges, etc., served to gratify the taste of our sick and wounded national defenders. Miss Rumsey, with much effect, sung national airs, which met the hearty approbation of the men. The wards were beautifully decorated with evergreens, the green holly, with its crimson berries, casting a rich shade over the viands, while the timed ivy hung in peaceful folds on the walls. Dr. S. A. Storrow, U. S. Army, and his assistants, Drs. Birkey, Edelin and Fisher, kindly received all visiters and escorted them over the whole hos-

COLLEGE HOSPITAL, GEORGETOWN. The patients in hospital in Georgetown were also lavishly supplied with Christmas dinners. At College Hospital, 295 patients partook of what was provided. The dinner was furnished by donations from Mrs. Secretary Smith, Mrs. Sweeney, Mrs. Hulse, Mrs. Hines and Mrs. Woodward, of Georgetown; all of whom have secured the lasting gratitude of the patients in this hospital for their many kindnesses. The bill of fare was as good and various as that of any other hospital, and the whole was prepared in a style to please the most epicurean tastes. In the dining hall the tables were covered with white cloths, and were decorated with evergreens and flowers. The hall itself was made attractive by numerous wreaths and festoons. Beneath the festoon nearest the door was a pyramid of seven buge cakes, the whole surmounted with flowers. This was the gift of Mrs. Hulse. All the patients who could go to the table were formed in line in the yard, and then marched under the direction of the steward (Mr. S. F. Poorman) into the room, and on entering they divided and marched down along the table, which they faced. The chaplain (Rev. John Thrush) then asked a blessing; after which all paid their respects to the sumptuous repast prepared. The medical officers in charge of this hospital are Drs. Brown, Dewitt and Smith. The establishment is in excellent hands. and under the excellent management of the steward (Mr. Poorman) and of his accomplished wife it will rank favorably with any hospital in the District. The wards are all neat and clean, and the patients all as happy and contented as they can be under the circumstances. Another feature is the cleanliness of the kitchen, Which is in the basement. TRINITY ROSPITAL, GEORGETOWN.

The dinner at this hospital (which was equal to any prepared elsewhere) was furnished partly by Mrs. Smith and partly by Mrs. Stone, of Georgetown, and 106 patients partock of it, the convalescents gathering around the table and the sickest ones being supplied in bed. The church was tastefully arranged with festoons and wreaths of evergreens, while flags interhospital. The table was decorated with wreaths of roses and other flowers. The supply of pro-Visions was so ample that they were enabled to call in the guard doing duty in the neighbor-hood and supply them also. To Mrs. and Miss Stone the patients of this hospital are much indebted for the pleasure they enjoyed on Christmas day. Dr. M. F. Morse is the surgeon in charge of Trinity, and he is assisted by Drs. Puckett and Ward. B. F. Brown is Hospital Steward.

DUMBARTON HOSPITAL. At Dumbarton Hospital a lavish supply of provisions were provided by Mrs. Smith, and 125 patients were supplied. The surgeon in charge is Dr. A. E. Carothers, who is assisted by Dr. Buritt. W. H. Cook is hospital steward. By the exertions and labors of Mrs. Chapman, bliss Shanks, Miss Dawes, Mrs. Brown, Miss Shirley, Mrs. Carothers and other ladies and rentlemen, the dining-room and tables were meet attractively arranged. Wreaths and festoons decorated the walls and altar, while the motto "Union" was displayed in a most prominent place. Red, white, and blue ribbons were also displayed in lavish profusion. The tables Were tastefully arranged, and pure white tablecloths were used on the occasion. All desirable substantials were amply supplied, while oranges and other fruits and delicacies were abundant. This hospital also deserves particular mention for its nest and cleanly condi-

UNION HOTEL HOSPITAL. At this hospital 191 patients partook of a bounteons repast, furnished by Mrs. C. B. Smith and Mrs. Ropes and Mrs. Smith, the efficient natron and assistant matron of the hospital. The passage ways of the house and the dining hall were arranged and decorated with festoons and wreathe of evergreen, while rosettes, flags and crosses made all appear most attractive.

After dinner, resolutions of thanks to President Lincoln and Mrs. Smith, and to the ladies of Washington and Georgetown, who had contributed to the feast, were adopted. Drs. Stipp, Ottman, Fitzpatrick, Smith and Cromwell are the attending surgeons here. F. R. Guger is hospital steward. Union Hotel Hospital is in excellent condition.

SEMINARY HOSPITAL. This is exclusively an officer's hospital, under the charge of Dr. L. Wells, chief surgeon, assisted by Drs. Good and Merriam and two cadets, and was not the recipient of favors bestowed upon the wounded privates. But, thanks to the gentlemen in charge, an excellent dinner was provided on Christmas day. The capacity of this hospital is about 150, and fullis well adapted for hospital use, is kept in tiptop order, and a mutual good will seemed to pervade officers and patients.

PRESETTERIAN CHURCH HOSPITAL. At this hospital 115 patients were fed, the dinner having been provided by the liberality of Mr. S. T. Snow, of Boston, who furnished the means, and the purchases were made by Rev. F. F. Brown and Mr. Burr. It is but proper to say, however, that Mrs. Smith would have furnished this hospital also, had she not been notified of the liberality of Mr. Snow. The bill of fare embraced all that the marke afforded in the way of making up a substautial and inviting Christmas dinner. The fair hands of Miss Kate Collier, Miss Ellis, Mrs. Col. Morris, Miss Buckey, Mrs. Tenney, Mrs. French, and Mrs. Dr. Knickerbocker, added much to the enjoyment of the day by gaily decorating the wards and dining hall with evergreens, and the decorations were interspersed by the patients with such mottoes as "Our thanks to the ladies," "Union," "Victory." The tables were arranged in elegant style, with pyramids of cakes, fruit, &c., and on one of the tables was a piece of statuary representing a boy holding over his head a basket, which was filled with fruit, and all surmounted by a boquet, while evergreens and flowers were gracefully wreathed around the statue. The body of the church was also beautifully arrangedat the altar were wreaths and crosses, and all around the building were mottoes, shields, &c., while two muskets crossed on either side gave the room somewhat of a military appearance. At the end of the room opposite the altar, a large American flag was gracefully festooned, while beneath it were the words, formed of cedar twigs, "Union and Constitution," and beneath that a wreath of pine, with the word "Hope" formed therein, also of evergreen; and in a very artistic manner. The gas-burners were also finely wreathed. On the whole, the day at this hospital was one not to be shortly forgotten. Dr. B. Knickertocker is the surgeon in charge here. Drs. Heichhold and Hyde are assistants. Jas. Perry is hospital steward.

SOUTHERN METHODIST CHURCH HOSPITAL. At the Southern Methodist (a branch of Ascension) the dining room and the principal ward were gaily decorated with evergreens and flags, giving to them a picturesque aspect; and about I o'clock those of the patients able to sit at the table (numbering about 60) marched down and took their seats with the officers and attendants, and partook of the supero dinner, which was furnished by Mrs. Secretary Smith and others, and served up under the superintendence of Mrs. Howells and Miss Boggs, assisted by other ladies, to which full justice was done. A table was set also in the ward room, from which twenty of the patients (not being able to get down to the dining room) were served. This hospital is a branch of the Ascension, which is under the charge of Dr. J. C. Dorr, and is under the care of Dr. G. M. Dale, W. H. Hyers, steward; E. A. White, ward master; and is in a highly-creditable condition, every part being kept clean, and the patients secriving the best attention. During the day this place was visited by many of the soldiers friends and several others of the army; all of whom expressed themselves highly gratified with the condition of the institution.

STONE HOSPITAL. The rooms of this hospital were tastefully decorated with evergreens, flags, portraits, &c. An abundance of everything palatable in the way of edibles was provided, and dinner was served first to those patients who were unable to leave their beds. At the dining table sixty soldiers were present, and they were waited upon by the nurses and attendants, who afterwards partook of the abundance not consumed by the patients. 'The proceedings at the dinner table were enlivened by excellent music by a glee club, composed of inmates of the hospital. Everything passed off to the entire satisfaction of all who participated. Dr. Gleman, the surgeon at this hospital, unfortunately was obliged to keep his room from illness; but Mr. Clark, the steward, and Mr. Mercer, storekeeper of the institution, were untiring in their efforts to assist the committee. This hospital is situated of the northern extremity of Fourteenth street, in the spacious mansion of Dr. Stone, of this city. In beauty of location it is not excelled by any of the suburban palaces of the metropolis. The committee of ladies having this entertainment in charge consisted of Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Laurenson, Mrs. R. B. Clark, Mrs. Stratton, and Mrs. Alden.

FINLEY HOSPITAL-Dr. Moses is the surgeon in charge of this hospital. There are about five hundred inmates. On Christmas day, as on all other days, the yard was cleanly swept. The dining hall was elegantly decorated with festoons of evergreens and small-sized national flags. Turkeys chickens, geese ham, oysters, vegetables, pie, etc., were in abundance for dinner, and the soldiers gave the best evidence of their appreciation of the efforts of the ladies to minister to their Christmas pleasure. At this hospital lager beer was furnished to all the HARWOOD HOSPITAL. The day passed off handsomely at this hospital. The committee of ladies consisted of Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. Robert Farnham, Mrs. J. M. Blanchard, Mrs. W. F. Hall, Mrs. L. D. Jonnson, Mrs. R. H. Spencer, Mrs. C. L. Coltman, Mrs. J. W. Angus. These ladies added to their force the following assistants; Misses Ada and Jane Smith, two Misses Carusi, Miss Carrie Farnham, Mrs. Mary Middleton, Mrs. Edward Jordan and Miss D. Porter. The delicacies were supplied by the committee, the substantials by Mrs. Smith. Over twelve hundred were provided for at the tables. The remainder were waited upon in their beds. There was abundance of everything. A Glee Club from the Second District volunteers, comprising persons from many States, enlivened the occasion with pleasant music. The Committee of ladies were conveyed to the hospital by a team belonging to Mr. C. C. Bean of New York, which had been through the Peninsula campaign and the fight at Antietam.

COLUMBIAN COLLEGE HOSPITAL. This occupies the building known as the Columbian College, having been used as a hospital since the commencement of the war. It is situated on high and healthy ground, on Fourteenth street, about a mile north of the suburbs. It can accommodate 700, but its capacity has been recently reduced to about 500, having now nearly that number on the list of wick and convalescent. The various halls were festconed with wreaths of evergreen, presenting a neat and tasteful appearance. On the second floor, suspended from the ceiling, was a fanciful ornament of cedar leaves, and the word "Union" worked in the center, with engraved pictures of Burnside and Sigel on either side. The table here was abundantly supplied, and was arranged and presided over by Mrs. Morell, Mrs. Croaby, Miss Simpson and Mrs. King. The surgeons in charge of this hospital are Drs. Swazey, Morrison, Mathewson and Buck. At the close of the dinner, the patients of ward No. 3 presented Miss Emma Stood a splendid photographic album. At six o'clock. John A. Fowle, Esq., accompanied by Miss Rumsey and Mr. Carruth, attended. Mr. Rumsey and Mr. Carruth, attended. Mr. Fowle delivered a short address. A few remarks appropriate to the occasion were made also by Mr. Carruth, in which he stated that he had been commissioned by Gen. Andrews to go down to Falmouth and ascertain the precise condition of the Massachusetts soldiers. He gave a very flattering report, complimenting the Sanitary Commissioners and Quartermaster. Miss Rumsey sang "Our Country's Flag" and "The Star Spangled Banner" in very excellent style, eliciting the applause of the soldiers. CARYER HOSPITAL Is situated a few rods north of the Columbia College Hospital. It consists of mumerous rows of long low sheds, which are partitioned off into apartments for the sick. It is divided into three wards, the north, south, and west. Mrs. Pomeroy, Hall, and McLean were the committee in attendance on the north side; Mrs. Snow and Barr on the south, and Mrs. Chittenden and McClellan on the west side. Dr. Oliver A. Judson was the surgeon in charge. The south ward was decorated with evergreens, and one end with a picture of the battle of Bull Run, with several comic engravings, and on the other, the words, "In God we trust," beautifully wrought in silk. The west side contained sumerous phrases and sentences, in cedar work, such as, "The Union Inseparable," "In Unity there is Strength," and "Our Flag." The north ward was also very handsomely ornamented with variously turned evergreens. In the west end of this ward a beautiful eagle, formed of cedar twigs, was represented as holding in his beak a blue pennon containing the words, "E Pluribus Unum," and holding in each talon a diminutive star-spangled banner. Above the figure gracefully hung the broad, ample folds of the American flag. On the right of this was a piece of ornamental silk-work, containing the word "purity," and on the left a similar piece, containing the sentence: "Our Lord is God." The hospital contains about fourteen hundred sick and convalescent, with three hundred confined to their rooms. The soldiers ate first, and did justice to the fine repast which the industry and good taste of the ladies had prepared. A fine band of music was in attendance, and a few short and appropriate addresses were delivered.

CAMPBELL HOSPITAL. The dinner here was a most elegant affair. The dining room was tastefully decorated, and the tables spread in exquisite style by the committee of ladies, aided by Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Maynard, lady of the Hon. Mr. Maynard, of Tennessee. The rich and fragrant flowers were presented by Mrs. McLellan, of Washington. The ceremonies of the day commenced with an appropriate and eloquent prayer by the Rev. Mr. Butler, of the English Lutheran Church; then, the dinner; after which a number of toasts were drunk and responded to. Among them were: Our Nation's Chief Magistratethe soldier's friend. The Kind and Everthoughtful Ladies of Washington-could we but express the heartfelt gratitude which fills our hearts this day, it would in a small degree compensate them for the kind and generous marner in which they have remembered us. The prayers of mothers, wives and sisters are offered to God for you. [Responded to eloquently by Hon. Mr. Maynard, of Tennessec.] The Press. The Sanitary Commission. The Patriots of East Tennessee. Our friends who have honored us this day by their presence. Our relations and friends at home. Hon. Horace Maynard, in behalf of the ladies, proposed the following toast: Campbell Hospital-its surgeon in charge and its assistant surgeons. A home for our noble soldiers, where they can ever find a healing balm for their wounds. and tender and skillful hands to apply it. [Surgeon Baxter acknowledged this compliment.] These interesting ceremonies were closed atout sundown, with many declarations from patients and visitors that this was one of the happiest days of a lifetime. The closing hymn, by every voice, was "America."

CLIPVBURNE HOSPITAL. This hospital was formerly one of the most prominent in the District, and during the past week it contained about 250 sick and wounded but many of them have been removed to th Lincoln Hospital, near the Capitol. On Thurs day, about 100 were still in the wards. Com panies I and E. of the 150th Pennsylvania regiment, Col. Hester, are encamped on the same grounds. There was no celebration here, owing to the fact that it was understood to be in the contemplation of the Government to abandon it.

FOURTH OHIO CONVALESCENT CAMP. The celebrations at this camp were a splendid success. Most ample arrangements had been made for the "Christmas ration," and when the dinner hour arrived the cook-house was smoking with the savory dishes prepared for the soldiers. Some 700 were to be fed, and for their accommodation long tables were set in the open air, and contiguous to the tents, and at about one o'clock the good things began to be arranged upon them for the feast. A band of music from Fort Gaines was in attendance. Before cinner a poem was read by E. B. Olmstead, formerly Captain of company H, 4th Ohio. After full justice had teen done the excellent dinner provided, all collected around a speaker's stand, which had been improvised for the occasion, and addresses were delivered by Hon. R. Spaulding, Senator Sherman, Brig. Gen. Garfield, Secretary Chase, and other distinguished citizens of Ohio. At the suggestion of Mr. Slade, one of the speakers, the name of the camp was changed to Camp Ohio, and the names of Ohio ladies who had exerted themselves for the soldiers were given to the streets and avenues of ALEXANDRIA HOSPITALS. At the Alexandria Hospitals the patients fared as well as at the Washington and Georgetown hospitals.

FAIRFAX STREET HOSPITAL. The day passed most pleasantly in the Fairfax street Hospital. Through the kindness of Dr. Summers, the surgeon in charge of the first division, and Mrs. Hooper, a most worthy and charitable lady of Washington, the patients were regaled with a magnificent dinner. Early in the morning every ward and room in the house was tastefully decorated under the superintendence of the noble female nurses of the hospital. As these ladies superintended the work last Christmas, they determined to outdo their tormer efforts, and it must be said the wards looked admirably. The convalescent patients sat down at 2 p. m., and after an impressive prayer by the worthy chaplain, the Rev. Mr. Olmstead, did ample justice to the roast turkey, chickens, cranberry sauce, &c., &c., with which the tables were loaded. More contented and happy men were never seen. Neither were the poor fellows in bed neglected: the surgeon went around and saw that all had a fine Christmas dinner. This hospital was the second one opened in Alexandria. The same surgeon, Dr. James Robertson, has been in charge; also the same medical cadet, Mr. Eichelberger, and the female nurses, Miss Leach, Mrs. White, and Mrs. Shelton, have been connected with this admirably conducted hospital since it was opened. We may say all connected with this hospital spent a most happy Christmas.

METRODIST CHURCH HOSPITAL. The dinner here was arranged under the immediate supervision of Dr. Mackenzie, the funds being supplied from the hospital fund and the savings of mens' rations. There were one hundred men at table, all of whom were also, had a good dinner, the main portion of the contributions coming from private sources. Mrs. Gen. Slough, Mrs. Col. Tait, Col. DeKorpony, of Hungarian fame, and Mrs. Clara F. Jones, of Germantown, Pa., were quite active in the matter, and Mr. James M. Nixon, the proprietor of the Theater and Circus, gave a fair proportion of $500, the proceeds of a benefit. PINE STREET HOSPITAL.

Under the care of Dr. Biglow, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, had eighty-five patients; sixty o whom attended the feast. The remainder were waited on in the wards.

WOLF STREET HOSPITAL, Dr. T. C. Stewart, had 190 patients, all but 18 of whom could come to the table. Good cheer was marked strongly in this institution. There were oysters, ale, wine, jellies, fowls, and good old-fashioned bread, and sweet butter, direct from West Chester, Chester county, Pa. We understand that Mr. J. S. Stevenson, Frank Jones, John Acker, Rachel Davis and Mary Davis, were very liberal in bestowing provisions. WASHINGTON HALL.

The dinner was served up precisely at one o'clock, and those who participated were well satisfied with the provision made for them. GRACE CHURCH HOSPITAL.

The dinner here was ample and well prement, 42 of whom occupied seats at the table. The interior of the building was dressed with appropriate emblems, and the word "Welcome," in letters of evergreen, met the gaze of those visitors who entered the building.

ST. PAUL'S HOSPITAL. The patients here were supplied with a din-ner provided by certain ladies of Pennsylvania, who donated suitable provisions to make a most acceptable dinner. All enjoyed themselves

BAPTIST CHURCH HOSPITAL. The tables here were elegantly arran a nice taste was observable in the decorations. Oranges and tropical fruits were in profusion, and the turkeys were "browned" as though to tempt the palate of an epicure. On the walls were the names of Burnside, Butler, "Little Mac," Slough, Sigel, Grant, Augur, and Scott, formed of cedar and laurel leaves, interspersed with red holly berries. Many of the inmates of this institution hail from Vermont, and they acknowledge the generosity of Mrs. General Slough, Mrs. Massey, Rev. Mrs. Reed, and Miss

Thus passed Christmas at the hospitals and among those who have contracted wounds and disease while serving in the armies of their country. It was a bright day for all, and one which will always bring pleasing thoughts both to those who donated and those who were the recipients of the dinners. The main credit is due to Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Secretary Smith, who in a measure supplied all the hospitals; but the grateful soldiers will not forget soon the other kind ladies who by their presence and smiles added sunshine to the gloomy hospital cots.

THE OPERATIO GRAND CONCERT TO-NIGHT. We again direct the attention of our readers to the grand concert to be given at the Washington Theater this evening. The celebrated prima donna, M'lle Cordier, and the youthful and famous contraito, M'ile Mcrensi, will make their debut in conjunction with the male artists of Mr. Grau's Italian Opera Company. A glance at the programme will show that it consists of a variety of gems seldom offered in one concert -such as the Shadow Song, the Hunter's Song, and the grand aris for baritone from Dinorah, the incomparable quartette from Rigoletto, and others. It is rumored that the company will give an entire opera-La Traviata-on Monday evening next. Seats may be secured at Metzerott's music store.

THE POORHOUSE FULL.-The Washington poorhouse now contains over two hundred inmater, and is so crowded that the management are compelled to place six and eight inmates in the rooms together. It is useless to apply for accommodations there at present, as it cannot be given.

Accident.—Yesterday, Wm. Washington, a private of company B, 2d D. C. Voinhteers, apt. Dutant, in camp near the Circle, was shot by a comrade handling a pistol carelessly in his tent. The ball entered his breast near the shoulder, and lodged in his back.

WHO IS TO BLAME? - In this morning's Chronicle there appeared an article asking who was to blame for the ill success of the Christmas dixner at Convalescent Camp. The lady who has undoubtedly done so much towards the soldiers' Christmas dinner, was also at the head of the arrangements for the convaleecent dinner. I would not for an instant attach the least blame to said lady, but I desire that the others (ladies and gentlemen) who took an active part in the affair should also have the same charity extended towards them.

Mrs. Dr. Munson and the other members of the committee of arrangements had everything in readiness for the dinner, and only awaited the arrival of the poultry, provision, etc., which they expected some two or three days prior to Christmas, and which did not arrive until late in the morning of the 25th, and then but only a small portion of what was expected. When the poultry did arrive it was in an uncooked state. The consequence was that at the eleventh hour everything had to be prepared for some 15,000 men-an undertaking much more arduous and difficult of performance than feasting two or three hundred soldiers.

Situated as the committee were, (through no fault of theirs,) they displayed an energy worthy of commendation. After waiting at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Munson from 8 a. m. until near 12, owing to the non-arrival of the provisions, the party went to Camp Convalescent, prepared everything they could, but found it im; ossible to set a table for the soldiers. It is true the amount taken to the camp was inadequate to supply all. But why was it? Because the provisions were not sent at the proper time or in the proper quantity from the source which the committee had a right to expect to receive them. The whole committee have done nobly under the circumstances, and I hope the public will give them the benefit of a candid and just opinion. All that is asked is
